Chowchilla kidnaper to testify

OAKLAND (AP) — An attorney for Chowchilla kidnaper James Schoenfeld says his young client is scheduled to testify for the first time this week in a fight to avoid spending the rest of his life in prison.

Testimony by the 26-year-old defendant would be first public comment by any of the three admitted kidnappers the bizarre July 1976 abduction of 26 school children and their bus driver.

The three San Francisco Peninsula men pleaded guilty to simple kidnapping. But they were found guilty of three counts of kidnap with bodily harm charges after a trial in Alameda County Superior Court.

In California, kidnap with bodily harm carries a mandatory sentence of life in prison without chance of parole. Parole is possible after seven years for simple kidnapping.

Retired Judge Leo Deegan, who heard the case without a jury, put off sentencing in mid-January to allow the defense to argue the maximum sentences is unwarranted.

The mitigation hearing was scheduled to begin Tuesday before Deegan.

"I'm almost certain I'm going to put James on the stand to tell the judge that at no time did he plan to hurt the children," said Madera County Public Defender Lester Gendron.

Attorneys for Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26, have indicated they plan to let relatives and friends of the kidnappers testify as character witnesses.

Livermore pilot dies after crash

VACAVILLE — A 60-year-old student pilot, taking lessons at the Livermore Municipal Airport, crashed here Sunday while returning from his cross-country solo flight.

C. J. Greufe, of Castro Valley, took off from Livermore on his 'graduation' flight Saturday. Foul weather forced him to stay overnight in Chico.

General Aviation District investigators in Sacramento don't yet know what caused his crash Sunday about 10 a.m. But investigator Dick Neilson says Greufe's plane knocked down a power line when it crashed outside Vacaville.

The older pilot was still alive when found by Pacific Gas and Electric crews almost 11 hours after he crashed. He died while the crew was giving him first aid. The cause of death hasn't been determined.

The nose of the small plane was buried almost two feet in the ground and one wing was torn off. It isn't yet known if Greufe was flying his own plane, according to Neilson, who expects a full report within two days.

Happy Valentine's Day

These Valentine's Day couriers at Foothill High School will be delivering carnations "from a secret pal" today. Checking over their list of "forget-me-not" flowers are, from left, Jamie Yee, Tracy Owen, Lynn Benninger and Pam Schock. The girls made their costumes which consist of a deep red heart-shaped bib, red dress and painted red hearts on their faces. Boys and girls will have carnations delivered anonymously by the intrepid St. Valentines Day couriers. Proceeds from carnation sales will go to the senior class.

Lawmaker poll

Holmdahl and Mori help rate the governor

Local legislators Floyd Mori and John Holmdahl disagree on the performance of fellow Democrat Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., according to an Associated Press poll of 25 lawmakers released yesterday.

The state senators and assembly members who were polled, representing a philosophical cross-section of the Legislature, gave Brown's performance an average rating of 5½ on a scale of 1 to 10. Ratings from the 17 Democrats interviewed averaged 6½, while eight Republicans gave the governor an average score of 3½.

The ratio of Democrats to Republicans in the survey is approximately the same as it is in the Legislature, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 83-37.

Many of those interviewed saw Brown as a superb politician but a poor administrator, the survey revealed.

Legislators cited Brown's success in putting together a farm labor elections law as his top achievement. He was also praised for helping get passed a coastal protection bill, trying to keep down state expenditures, appointing women and minorities to state posts and stressing the need for new energy sources.

The governor drew criticism for some of his appointments, the state's scandal-plagued health programs, his pro-environment, anti-nuclear views and his approach to management.

"In the first place he can't delegate his way out of a wet paper bag," said Sen. Peter Behr (R-Tiburon). "He wants to make too many decisions on too many minor matters."

"The second problem is that he doesn't have a fixed set of priorities in the use of his time and is constantly being thrown off track. And, until recently, he's been unable to surround himself with proven administrators."

Pleasanton residents call on builders

PLEASANTON — Two proposed developments could double the population of Mission Park — and homeowners there don't intend to just sit and watch the "dump trucks and plows come up their streets," says Mission Park Homeowners Association president Robert Grove.

Homeowners are meeting with developers Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Pleasanton School's multi-purpose room. Grove hopes planning commissioner Walt Wood and planning director Bob Harris will also be there to explain the city zoning ordinances to residents.

"It will be the best possible opportunity to learn as much as we can about the developments," says Grove, stressing the meeting is to provide information to worried homeowners — not to outright oppose the developments.

Under scrutiny will be a 108 home development planned for the hills between the school and Mission Park and a 106 apartment unit complex proposed between Sunol Boulevard and Sonoma Drive.

Hospital salutes vets

LIVERMORE — The fifth annual National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans will take place today and include activities at the Livermore Veterans Administration Hospital.

The VA Hospital, located on Arroyo Road, will host a special program in the recreation lounge. Visitors are welcome to visit the patients and local Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts will distribute cookies and valentines to patients.

Education meeting off

Assemblyman Floyd Mori's Valley Education Advisory Committee will not meet on Thursday as originally scheduled.

The group was to discuss textbook adoptions. The meeting will be reset to some date in early March.

Visit the volunteers

The Valley Volunteer Bureau invites all residents to visit its new offices at 519 Kottinger in Pleasanton between 12 and 2 p.m. today.

Invitations have also been extended to representatives of social service agencies and city governments in the Valley. Regular office hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

OAKLAND — East Bay Municipal Utility District customers may celebrate the end of the drought with higher water bills.

The EBMUD board will consider raising the rates at Tuesday's 1:15 p.m. board meeting. The meeting will be held at the district's Oakland headquarters, 2130 Adeline St.

Three weeks ago, when the EBMUD board announced the end of mandatory water rationing, a proposal to raise water rates was tabled for further study and possible reduction of the proposed rates.

But the same proposal will be coming to the board again on Tuesday.

According to DeWitt Krueger, central Contra Costa County's board representative and a member of the Finance Committee, the district has to raise the rates to keep up with inflation.

The new rates would increase the water bill of a family that uses 300 gallons a day from the current $12.96 to $15.06 for the two-month billing period.

The fee for a company using 5,000 gallons of water a day would jump from $148.60 to $165.40.

The new rates would be effective Feb. 15.

For each two-month billing period, the proposed fees would be as follows:

The cost for the first 10 units would increase from 29 cents to 34 cents per unit. (A unit is about 750 gallons of water.)

The price for 11 to 80 units would jump from 39 cents to 44 cents per unit.

For 81 to 8,000 units it would go from 37 cents to 41 cents per unit, and the price for every unit over 8,000 would increase from 33 cents to 37 cents.

The monthly homeowners' service charge would also increase from the current $2.30 per month to $2.75 per month.

This proposed rate hike would be the second in the past year. Last year at the beginning of the drought, the district imposed a drought surcharge to cover increased costs.

At the time the surcharge was adopted, the district said it was a temporary charge and might be dropped later. According to Krueger, the surcharge will remain at least until a district-appointed committee finishes up its study and recommendations for district billing.

The committee, being formed now, will study the district's billing procedures and is expected to come up with recommendations for restructuring the entire rate system.

"The board tried to postpone this (rate hike) because we are doing this big study," which might mean another change at the end of the year, Krueger said.

Curriculum

Split seen in family planning

A division of opinion along humanistic and pro life lines is expected to surface Wednesday when the parent-student health advisory committee of the Pleasanton school district continues discussion of the controversial "Albany Plan."

Panelists are due to review the "My Body is Mine" segment of the plan, Family Life instruction and whether children will be shown types of contraceptives. The latter two subjects could mean a large turnout of persons supporting either a "pro life" or "humanistic - planned parenthood" approach to instruction.

The meeting Wednesday begins at 7:30 p.m. at Amador-Pleasanton district offices, 123 Main St., Pleasanton.

Recommendations of the parent health advisory committee will go to the district health committee towards the end of writing a total health curriculum that would be effective in 1978-79.

The "Albany Plan" is the present basis for the health education curriculum. There are three parts to the plan, labeled "My Body is Mine," "My Emotions

Are Mine," and "My Environment is Mine."

According to criteria listed by the districts, "the learning objectives in the body section were selected to give the student enough information about how his/her body works so that s/he might appreciate its exquisite design and be able to make intelligent decisions about its care."

Some members of the committee, believing the panel is getting into an area "that calls for value judgements," held an informal meeting Sunday.

One member of the panel has already asked that the complete "Albany Plan" not be accepted as the health education curriculum for the district.

UC-Lab report out, opponents react

The campus-based UC Nuclear Weapons Lab Conversion Project has planned a press conference this morning at UC Berkeley to respond to the Gerberding Report formally released Friday.

The report to UC president David Saxon by an eight-member committee headed by former UCLA chancellor William Gerberding evaluated UC's ties to Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and Los Alamos then recommended the university continue to manage the labs.

The Conversion Project has opposed UC's involvement with weapons research calling it incompatible with educational goals and called for elimination of all but non-military research. However the report concluded, "The university's association with the laboratories can be constructive and in the public interest. The committee unanimously recommends continued management of the laboratories."

But it noted, "We also unanimously and strongly recommend significant changes."

Among the changes recommended was the formation of a new committee to supervise the labs and ensure their "programs be of the highest quality and greatest objectivity."

This committee would answer to the trustees directly and should be formed within a year, the recommendations continued. However the committee noted the controversy around weapons development, including LLL's role in developing the neutron bomb and urged keeping ties with the labs only if the review committee is established.

"While the university's involvement may render the labs more efficient 'bomb factories,' it may make them more stimulating and sophisticated communities of scientists," the report stated.

"University management fosters an atmosphere more conducive to rigorous scientific investigation and to objective appraisal of policy issues than would otherwise be the case," it concluded.

Lawmakers rate Brown

That opinion was generally shared by most Democrats interviewed. "Policy planning as an alternative to government by crisis is not a mode that appeals to this administration," said a Democrat who asked not to be named.

Said another Democrat, who also asked not to be identified: "He's probably the worst administrator to come down the pike in years."

Brown ran a gubernatorial campaign in 1974 that was critical of the Legislature and there is still some resentment because of that, according to some lawmakers.

But there is a difference of opinion over the state of that relationship now, with some legislators saying it is relatively good and others saying it is poor.

Sen. John Holmdahl (D-Castro Valley), the valley's representative to the senate: "I think the relationship is remarkably good if you take into account the number and diversity of issues and the character of the districts and philosophy of the members."

Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton): "I think a lot of legislators are not happy with the governor. There are not a lot of consultations. There doesn't seem to be an adequate game plan involving the Legislature."

Brown had no comment on the poll, but his press secretary, Elisabeth Coleman, said the ratings were "pretty good. Getting 3½ from Republicans in an election year is not bad at all."

Brown's score contrasts with the consistently high ratings he's received in public opinion polls. In a survey last October by pollster Mervin Field, 80 percent gave Brown good or fair ratings. Only 15 percent said he was doing a poor job.

Lectures stress reading

DUBLIN — On Tuesdays, March 7 and 14, a series of lectures will be held stressing the theory of reading at Dublin High School.

The lectures are open to all with an interest in reading and are slated from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m. each day.

Professor Ellsworth Berget, Cal State Hayward, and Ellen Owens, Chabot College, will lead a group of six seminar leaders who will discuss such topics as: motivation to read, vocabulary development, enforcement, enrichment, word attack skills, distinguishing topic sentence and main idea, synthesis of topic sentences and levels of comprehension.

For further information, contact the Amador Adult Education office at 462-0022.

Talk on mental health

Dr. Floyd Wylie, deputy director of Community Health Services for the City and County of San Francisco, will speak on "Mental Health and Black Americans—Past, Present, and Future," at 11 a.m. today in Building 600 at Chabot College in Hayward.

His talk is part of the Black History month lectures presented at the college. An earlier speaker was Dr. Harry Edwards, associate professor of sociology at the University of California, Berkeley.

Dr. Wylie, who has written numerous articles on the black aged, also maintains a private practice in San Francisco. He received his doctorate in clinical psychology from Wayne State University in Michigan.

Solar workshop set

The second in a series of solar energy workshops sponsored by Chabot College Valley Campus is scheduled Saturday, Feb. 25.

Entitled "Solar Energy and You," this workshop is directed toward solar energy applications in homes and small businesses. It will last from 9 a.m. until 12 noon and be led by William Seavy.

The opening workshop in late January explored solar energy and included workshop planning sessions with Seavy, of Pacific Gas and Electric; Robert Pelikan, product engineering manager for Altec Associates, and Nick Davis' solar consultant for Licciardello, Davis and Associates.

The workshop Feb. 25 will deal with basic solar principles, benefits and limitations, types of applications, things to consider (equipment, costs, expected savings, and bases for decision-making).

Other portions of the workshop will concentrate on planning a solar system, how to do-it-yourself, meeting building codes and getting approval, sources for help (solar hotline, information, etc.), and concluding with a question and answer period.

The third workshop, slated Saturday, March 4, is entitled "Buildings for the Future" and will be conducted by Dale Sartor.

Uncle Bill's vandalism fight

DUBLIN — Bill Gray, known as "Uncle Bill" to children in Los Angeles, will present his anti-vandalism program to the general public Feb. 17, 1 p.m. at Shannon Community Center, 11600 Shannon Ave., Dublin.

The Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD) is sponsoring the program.

Also, in cooperation with DSRSD and Murray School District PTA, Gray will attend the district vandalism workshop scheduled for Feb. 16, 7 p.m. at Shannon Center. However, he will not directly participate in the workshop, according to DSRSD.

Gray's program is noted for the ability to reach large numbers of youngsters at one time while reaching them emotionally as individuals.

Communities and school districts have reported they have experienced immediate, widespread reduction in vandalism after utilizing Gray's program.

Gray uses a rally approach. Proponents of Gray's technique stated this approach neutralizes any negative peer pressure that may exist. Youngsters with negative attitudes are no longer admired ... and, in fact, they are inspired to change their attitudes, according to documentation attained through tests.

The Uncle Bill Youth Values Program is a non-profit organization, according to a brochure issued by the organization.

Gray states in the brochure, "The 'Uncle Bill' Youth Values Program is a serious project designed to convey values to young people in such a manner as to obtain voluntary commitments to actively accept individual responsibility for personal behavior."

The program is directed primarily at youngsters between ages five and 12 years. This provides the base for seeking the active support of junior and senior high students.

Gray states the method is to dramatically convince the youngsters they are important as individuals ... that their actions are meaningful. By arming them with self-esteem and pride in accomplishment plus a positive direction, youngsters tend to readily develop a sense of personal responsibility for their home, school, community and country.

Results have shown Gray's technique has helped reduce vandalism to zero in some cases. Other percentages cited in the brochure ranged from 50 to 93 per cent.

A U.S. Army Captain, John Bird, spoke about Gray's Youth Value Program to the Dublin Chamber of Commerce in January.

Bird is a recruiting officer. He told the chamber he became interested in Gray's work after noticing how a record of vandalism could often prevent young people from pursuing a military career.

DSRSD is seeking ways and means to curb vandalism in Dublin San Ramon for two main reasons.

One is to try and help youth to develop more positive lifestyles. The other is to curtail the increasingly big bite vandalism takes out of funds that are needed for schools, recreation programs and maintenance of facilities.

—by Sue Vogelsanger

Letters by the thousand attest to "Uncle Bill" Gray's success in motivating children toward positive moral values and away from vandalism and violence. Gray will present his Youth Values Program Feb. 17, 1 p.m. at Shannon Community Center in Dublin. He will also be attending, but not participating in, a vandalism workshop, "A Community Problem with Community Needs," Feb. 16, 7 p.m. at Shannon Center. The workshop is being sponsored by the Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD).

School chief consultants interviewed

Amador and Pleasanton School District trustees last night interviewed two candidates for consultant to seek out applicants for superintendent.

The boards may also meet Wednesday to interview other consultant candidates. An announcement of the person or firm selected is expected by the end of the week.

The consultant hired by the districts will guide the search for a new superintendent to replace Dr. Bruce Newlin, who resigned in December and completed his tenure with the district last Friday. Newlin begins duties as superintendent of the Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District today.

GANG PLANK IMPORTS

Look at Dublin High smoking area

Amador Valley Joint High School District trustees will hear a status report on the development of proficiency standards and authorize establishing a mobile home site on the Foothill High School campus for a watchman at a meeting tonight.

Trustees will convene at 8 p.m. in the Foothill High School library.

Proficiency standards are being developed for grades kindergarten through 12th grade.

The mobile home site proposed for Foothill will serve the same purpose as those at Amador Valley and Dublin High Schools. Each was instituted to deter vandalism and burglaries.

Tom Davis, an assistant principal at Dublin High, will give a progress report on the proposed smoking area at the school.

According to the report, over 50 per cent of the students at Dublin smoke. "Consequently, in the past, the smokers have gathered on surrounding streets and property to indulge in this habit," says the report. "The homeowners near the school have complained bitterly about students leaving garbage, destroying property, and generally making problems for our neighbors."

"In addition to the above problem, many non-smoking students have complained about 'under cover' smoking in various restrooms. Constant supervision is virtually impossible in all of the restrooms; therefore, non-smoking students have complained about the restroom problem as a violation of their rights."

The committee was formed last October to study the feasibility of a smoking area and includes two administrators, one teacher, five students, and two parents.

A poll of parents was taken via the Gael-A-Gram on whether a smoking area should be established. Of the 331 families participating, 197 were in favor of a smoking area.

At present, the Dublin committee recommends the lawn area behind "D" wing for a smoking area on a trial basis. The area is adjacent to Brighton Drive.

A final recommendation from the committee will be presented to the board in March.

Trustees are also slated to act on proposed summer school dates (June 20 through Aug. 2), act on a resolution declaring a moratorium on legislation affecting schools, establish school site councils at Amador Valley and Foothill, act on a contract with the county to operate evening classes at Santa Rita, and advertise for bids for a track and field facility at Foothill High.

Chiropractic Health Hints

BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C.
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

ALLERGIES ARE CORRECTED THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

There is much popularization today of allergies, and yet the underlying causative factor is seldom brought to the important place it should hold. The cause in any process is the starting point for correction and that, in brief, is what we want to deal with. The cause manifests the symptoms, true enough, but the cause, not the symptoms, is the real enemy.

By definition an allergy is the condition of being sensitive to substances which, in similar amounts, do not affect others. This quote is from the dictionary. Any sensory perception is registered by the sensory nervous system. Then does it seem reasonable to say that a certain food or pollen is to blame for an allergic reaction? It is far more reasonable to assume that the person's tissue resistance is lowered and thereby reacts to a substance in sensitivity.

The nervous system is where the difference lies and not in a particular food or pollen which only produces the reaction. If the food or pollen is where the trouble began, wouldn't it be reasonable that the particular food or pollen would cause a reaction on every person and not just a few? Then it must be noted that the real difference is in the individual's nervous system and integrity of the tissues.

Now that we have found the underlying cause, we naturally want to know why this nervous system has lowered resistance and what can be done to correct it.

Let us list the most important and the most common cause of lowered tissue resistance: fatigue, nervousness (from anxiety or worry), dietary deficiency, and hampered nerve function.

To leave these just as statements without qualifying them would misrepresent their true import. For example, the nervous system's complex group, and if this is lacking the nervous system becomes hypersensitive. Fatigue lowers the tissue integrity and hampered nerve function lends itself to improper responses of the nervous system. Your chiropractor has effective methods of treatment in such cases. Consult him first for relief.

Airport alarm discussed

LIVERMORE — A report from a fire alarm specialist will be given at the monthly meeting of the Airport Advisory Committee Tuesday at noon at the Red Baron Restaurant.

ADT Security Systems reported in a letter to the airport supervisor that the initial investment to install a complete automatic alarm system covering the six existing hangars would be $5,482, with annual service charge of $1,024. The report indicated the installation cost would not include all conduit raceways between the buildings and the telephone termination point, which would be furnished by the city. The annual service cost would include all maintenance, inspections, telephone line costs and cost of connection to the Livermore Communication Center.

The committee also will hear a report about the proposed airport brochure which should be printed within two weeks.

THE BITTERSWEET OF LOVE SONGS

Many of the world's loveliest love songs have bittersweet events attached to their history. "My Funny Valentine, Sweet comic Valentine, you make me smile with my heart," are the words written by Lorenz Hart, for a Broadway musical "Babes In Arms," for which Richard Rodgers wrote the music.

"Stay little Valentine, stay. Each day is Valentine's Day..." But Lorenz Hart himself, couldn't stay. Although he was half of a successful composing team, he became discouraged with his work, and one day in 1948, he told Rodgers to find a new lyrics man, that he needed a rest, and then he disappeared.

He was found in a hotel room unconscious a few days later, and died of acute pneumonia within three days, at the age of 48.

But he left a living legacy in the poignant lyrics of "My Funny Valentine" and other love songs.

Steven Foster's wife Jennie had left him in 1853, but he wrote a song to win her back: "I Dream of Jennie With The Light Brown Hair."

The name Jennie was changed to Jeanie by the publisher, but the song was successful in its purpose, and Jennie returned to her husband after the words, "I long for Jeanie with the day dawn smile, Radiant in gladness, warm with winning guile," were published and the song became popular for a time.

The initial success of the song died down for 90 years, but it became a hit again in 1941 after the radio networks played it almost hourly due to a dispute with ASCAP, the professional songwriters' society.

But Steven Foster never knew of the love song's revival. He had died in New York in 1864 having lost the battle against illness, poverty and alcoholism at the age of 38.

"Sweet Rosie O'Grady, My dear little Rose. She's my steady lady. Most everyone knows. I love sweet Rosie O'Grady, and Rosie O'Grady loves me." These familiar words and the tune were written by Maude Nugent in the 1890's.

She took it to a publisher, who turned it down. That made Maude so angry that she grabbed the music off the piano and started for the door.

The publisher suddenly changed his mind and decided to buy the song. He subsequently made a fortune from the song, but Maude Nugent received only $100. It was her only successful song.

"By the light of the Silvery Moon, I want to spoon, To my Honey I'll croon love's tune," the Gus Edwards, Ed Madden song, became the trademark of the great vaudeville star Lillian Lorraine, who sang it in Ziegfeld's follies.

It was her signature song from 1909 until 1933, when she was asked at an all-star review to come up on stage from out of the audience to sing it one last time.

But she could sing only a few bars before she broke down and cried, as it brought back memories of her lost youth and stardom, back in the days before vaudeville met its demise.

"My Own True Love, at last I've found you, My Own True Love," words for "Tara's Theme," the Max Steiner background music for the movie class, ic, "Gone With The Wind," were written by Mack David in 1941, bringing new popularity to the haunting theme of the bittersweet life of Scarlett O'Hara, in the Margaret Mitchell epic story.

"Play it again, Sam," Bogart is supposed to have said. And the piano player launched into the Herman Hupfeld song "As Time Goes By," in the movie "Casablanca," with Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, bringing sad-sweet memories to movie-goers of the early 40's.

The song symbolized a love which couldn't be, but reminds us that although love is sometimes tinged with sadness, "the world will always welcome lovers' as time goes by."

Some Valentine trivia for sentimental types

Yes, it's the day when someone leaves a five-pound box of candy on the kitchen table as a surprise — but you find a chocolate-covered preschooler and lots of wrappers by the time you get to it.

It's the day when, as a little thoughtful day-brightener, your husband puts a valentine in your shoe. But you don't find out until 5 o'clock, by which time you've developed a good blister and still can't figure out why.

Oh, is today Valentine's Day? you ask with mock surprise as boyfriend / girlfriend / lover / husband / wife / hands you that card as big as a billboard? You may be a bit curious about it all, then again, maybe you just like bon bons. But the first Valentine was supposedly delivered Feb. 14, 1415, from Charles, Duke of Orleans to his wife. He smuggled his love letter out of the Tower of London. Some of us are still going through the same kind of trauma trying to figure out what to do for the big day.

Some suggestions? Well, according to Hallmark, you can "send your would-be Valentine a heart-shaped candle and offer to light it at a nice little restaurant you know." Or "hide Valentines where they are sure to be found during the day — in a coat pocket, a pair of socks (?), the car seat, a place special to you both."

If that isn't enough, they suggest that newlyweds "may want to make a time capsule recording. Reminisce about the first year together. Record a popular song and read the day's front page headline."

Or, if your into nostalgia, give your honey a shining bright tomato. In the 19th Century tomatoes were known as "love apples," perhaps because they were heart-shaped when sliced in half.

In earlier times, custom suggested a girl would eventually marry the first eligible male she met on Feb. 14. Or, if she couldn't wait for Valentine's day, she could sprinkle rose water under her pillow on Valentine's Eve and see her spouse-to-be in a dream.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Six months ago I met and fell in love with a divorced man who wants to marry me. I love him but I know that he was a swinger in the past and used to belong to a key club where he and his wife indulged in group sex. I personally hate the thought of swinging and have made this clear to him. He claims to be tired of the old life. He says he'd die before he'd introduce me to anything that he did in his past and he wants our marriage to be different. Do you think marriage to him is a risk? Y.O.

DEAR Y.O.: Any marriage, any relationship involves risk and this is certainly no exception. It is possible, of course, that he's feeding you a line, but it's difficult how this could go on for six months if this man is still the swinger he apparently used to be.

Studies indicated that the swinging life leaves much to be desired and it has had a large number of dropouts. One study of more than 1,000 couples showed that 68 of the couples had too much guilt to continue. Fifty-three couples found that emotional attachments to their new partners got in the way of good marital relationships at home and 49 couples complained of boredom or loss of interest. Thirty-two couples said swinging didn't live up to their expectations.

The man you're currently involved with may have left the scene for any number of reasons. The point is that he did leave it and he may be serious when he says he's through. Apparently, the swinging life isn't as attractive as many have painted it. Many ex-swingers complain about the "strain, fatigue, effort and ultimate boredom." Increasing numbers of swingers are now seeing more stable relationships based on love—or at least deep affection.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My 18-year-old nephew has some of us worried because he's suddenly become involved in a religious movement. His parents are good people, but not especially religious, at least, not in the church-every-Sunday way. He's had relatively good relations with them and I hope this doesn't mean he's going to reject them the way some youngsters do when they "get religion." I find it a bit hard to understand this whole trend. I tried to talk to my nephew about it but he really let me know in no uncertain terms it was none of my business. I wonder if there's any way I can help him. M.R.

DEAR M.R.: Not knowing what particular religious movement your nephew is interested in, it's difficult to say how it will affect his relationship with his family. It may help. Not all of the new religious groups erect barriers between parents and children. Some evangelical leaders actually try to promote better understanding in families.

I think you can help your nephew by not jumping to the conclusion that this new interest is going to have a negative or threatening effect on him or his parents.

According to a recent Gallup poll, America may be in the early stages of a profound religious revival. The president of the American Institute of Public Opinion attributes this groundswell of interest in religion to evangelicals who have energized the whole revival movement.

Many young people attracted to fundamentalist religious movements because they are searching for a strong authority figure in their life. They often seem to welcome a more structured code of behavior that allows them few options. This may be a reaction against society's permissive attitudes toward sex. Young people may actually feel threatened by an excess of freedom which places more responsibility on their shoulders than they're willing or able to bear.

"AN EEL FOR VALENTINE'S DAY?!"

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a daughter who had what our doctor said was epilepsy at age 5 to 6 years. He said it was called petit mal. She was treated with medication. After age 7 she has not had any attacks.

She claims that if it was epilepsy she would never have outgrown it. I say it is possible to outgrow it. What is your advice on this matter?

DEAR READER — My advice is to forget about it. Petit mal is a minor form of epilepsy and the term means "little sickness." It is not associated with convulsions as you see with grand mal (great sickness).

The attacks are associated with lapse of consciousness, and the child may stare off into space (I hasten to add that everyone who stares off into space doesn't have petit mal, or a lot of us would be in trouble). The child seems almost suspended or frozen, totally unaware of anything around him. The blank stare may be accompanied by rapid eye blinking if you happen to notice it.

Characteristically, the attacks begin between age 3 and 10 and disappear after puberty. It is exceptionally rare to see petit mal attacks in anyone past 30, so the disappearance of your daughter's attacks is to be expected and in no way proved that she didn't have petit mal. I'd be very much surprised if she were still having them.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem that others no doubt have. It's called gynecomastia and it's very embarrassing to me. I am 20 and have had it for almost six years. In gym and at the beach I've always been nervous about taking off my shirt. I am tired of being the butt of jokes. Is there anything that can be done? My doctor says no. You are my last hope.

DEAR READER — Of course something can be done about it. I presume your doctor who says no has evaluated you to be sure you have no endocrine problems. If you did, such a problem should be treated.

If you are a normal guy with large breasts you can simply have the fatty material removed from under the skin. It is a fairly simple procedure. This is not necessary for the young boys who have a knot under the breast that is temporary. This is fairly common, but after six years and at your age, it looks like it is rather permanent.

Some doctors are not helpful about cosmetic problems. It stems from training that surgery and medicine are for disease conditions. Some have almost a moral indignation about cosmetic surgery or things that improve a person's appearance. How silly!

You've had an inner feeling that big things can happen to others but not you. This coming year you are going to realize you, too, can be the recipient of glad tidings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't turn your house into a military academy for hubby or children today. You can get the jobs done by making games out of them. They'll be fun instead of chores.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The mind's an amazing phenomenon and can overcome matter. Marshal your positive thoughts today, and you can accomplish many positive things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The main problem today is that you have hopes that can be fulfilled, but you lack the ability to get into a position to make the most of your opportunities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Analyze a longtime desire for something. Perhaps you've wanted it for the wrong reasons and would quickly lose interest if you obtained it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) While you may really be grateful to those who do favors for you today, don't be surprised if you feel you can't express your gratitude adequately.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Guard against a preconceived notion about what others should be doing for you today. Just because you didn't expect it is no reason a tip or favor isn't potentially profitable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The burned child fears the fire, but you're not a child any more. Don't forever shun someone because they erred in the dim and distant past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Where your career is concerned you're in a strong position today. Oddly enough, you may foresee disaster instead of success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The areas in which you are lucky today may not be readily apparent. It seems you're aiming for the moon and can't see that your shots hit lower targets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Hearth and home should be uppermost today, but unfortunately this won't be the case. Dividing your devotion will do justice to no one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a hard way to do things today and there's an easy way. You'll know the difference, but you might experiment and wind up making things tough on yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're not in a position to close a business deal today, don't stew over it. Enjoy yourself. Leave economic olives to ripen on the vine.

Rogers wins Hope Classic

The hole will live in infamy

PALM SPRINGS — Bill Rogers will not soon forget the 11th hole at Bermuda Dune in the 1978 Bob Hope Desert Classic. For that matter, neither will Jerry McGee.

Rogers, a 26-year-old Texan, won the $225,000 tournament by two strokes with a 21-under-par 339. But the whole story was told Monday on the 371-yard, par-4 No. 11 on the final day of the rain-delayed five-round classic.

Rogers, a non-winner during his four years on the tour, led McGee by three strokes after 82 holes but hit his drive into the right rough on No. 11. His next shot caught a branch and fell 10 yards short of the elevated green and in front of a sand bunker, setting up what both players agreed was an impossible shot.

At that point Rogers said he was willing to just put the ball on the green and settle for a 2-putt bogey.

"Then I shanked my shift shot on the tour," he said, describing his third shot. "I got a good break because it rolled up against a man's foot and stayed away from the cart path. Now I got myself clear from the sand trap but I'm looking at another difficult chip shot, remembering the one I just hit."

McGee, at the time, was lying 25 feet from the hole, waiting for a try at a birdie.

"After looking at the shank I just performed, Jerry's looking at a 3-stroke swing," said Rogers.

Indeed, McGee said he was thinking: "I've got a 25-foot birdie putt and I'm three back. I know I'm going to be two back and, if I make it, I'll be one back."

"And darned if he doesn't hole it," said McGee. "He pitches it in."

"It was the turning point of the whole tournament. He probably thought at that point there was no way for him to lose the golf tournament," McGee said.

Rogers later commented: "I'm not going to say I knew that I was going to win. It was just like a strange type of feeling that came over me. It was just unbelievable. I was just elated. You can't believe how excited I was.

"And then I just calmed down and it was like starting all over again," he continued. "From then on I just tried to knock the ball on the green and 2 putt. If I made a putt, fine."

Rogers said things just happened for him during the tournament.

"I put myself in good position at the start of the round," he said, referring to the rounds of 69-67-69-270, 18 under par, he shot before finishing with a 69. "Things really fell in place and to culminate the whole deal, the shot on 11. Not only was it a big boost to me, it took a lot out of Jerry," he said.

McGee, a 12-year tour veteran who won the Philadelphia Classic, said, "I kept trying to do something (after the 11th). I made a birdie at 15, but didn't play 16 or 17 well. At 18 I didn't have a good lie on the fairway and didn't hit the ball solid."

Examiner Games to have wide variety

SAN FRANCISCO — Poland's world-class athletes didn't show up but the Northern California Track writers still were treated to some quality athletes at the pre-Examiner Games luncheon at the Holladay Inn here yesterday.

Sprinter Steve Williams and high hurdler Dedy Cooper more than made up for the Poles' absence.

Cooper, a junior from San Jose State, is 5-0 on the indoor circuit this season and he felt that proved something.

"I don't feel the papers have covered me that much," he frankly said. "Anybody who is consistent deserves respect. All I know is when I get on the track they all know that I'm there."

"I don't do my talking before the race like some runners do," he went on. "I just go out there and do what I have to do and that's that."

Cooper, who led Harry Ells of Richmond to the state high school championship in 1975, will run in the 60-yard high hurdles. He was bothered by injury problems last season and was also hampered by one leg being slightly longer than the other.

Williams, who was generally regarded as the world's best sprinter before suffering an injury prior to the 1976 Olympics, has moved to the Bay Area and currently lives and trains in Oakland.

"My season has been very erratic so far this year," he said. "My starts have been smooth but I'm still not doing as well as I should."

Steve is considered by some track experts to have the potential to break the world record in the 100, 200 and 400.

The 400 may be the 6-foot-3 athlete's best event.

"I've been doing a bit of overtraining so far," he commented. "I'd like to try the 400 more often this year."

Williams holds the world junior 440 record of 45.2, set in 1973. What does he consider his potential in that event?

"If I get down to the middle or low 45s I might try to go after Juanterona's times (Alberto of Cuba, the Olympic and world record holder)."

Perhaps the best event of Saturday night's competition could be the high jump.

Olympic champion Jacek Wszola (7-foot-6), silver medalist Greg Joy of Canada (7-foot-7 indoors) and former world record holder Dwight Stones will be challenged by new world indoor record holder Franklin Jacobs. Jacobs has a best of 7-foot-7.

Rudy T's suit is now federal

HOUSTON — State District Judge William Blanton transferred Rudy Tomjanovich's suit against the Los Angeles Lakers to federal court Monday and ordered Tomjanovich's attorneys to submit a damage figure within 90 days.

Tomjanovich, of the Houston Rockets, was lost for the National Basketball Association season last December when he was punched in the face by former Laker Kermit Washington. He sued the Lakers Dec. 29 for an unspecified amount.

James Kronzer, an attorney for Tomjanovich, said he could not place a specific amount on the suit because Tomjanovich still must undergo additional surgery for injuries suffered in the one-punch fight with Washington.

Kronzer did admit Tomjanovich is suing for more than $10,000.

Lakers' attorney Robert Dunn requested that since the amount was in excess of $10,000 and since the two parties in the suit are from different states, that the case be transferred to federal court.

With the case in federal court, Lakers' attorneys could attempt at a future date to have the case transferred to California where the incident occurred.

Warriors drop Dickey

Kermit returns intact

OAKLAND — He roars. He breathes fire. He's more powerful than a speeding Rocket. He's broke as a doctor after a malpractice suit.

He's Kermit Washington and maybe a couple of the above statements are true, but all represent what the public knows — or cares to know — about the Boston Celtic forward.

The incident is legend. Early December, Los Angeles. A fight erupts between Washington and Houston's Kevin Kunnert. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar holds Kunnert as Washington flails away.

Suddenly, Rudy Tomjanovich races toward the action and winds up in the hospital as Washington smashes his face with a roundhouse right.

Washington was suspended indefinitely and lost more than $50,000 in income — but for at least 60 days — and traded to Boston by a Laker team in need of immediate help in its battle with the Golden State Warriors to avoid last place in the powerful Pacific Division.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m., the National Basketball Association takes its first look at Washington, the player, since Washington, the brawler, emerged that night in Los Angeles. And, like Tomjanovich's last complete game, Washington will make his return at the Coliseum Arena against the Warriors.

What the reaction will be is unclear. While Washington's actions a cross-section of players, fans and politicians throughout the nation.

Certainly, Coliseum fans, with the wishy-washy Warriors to worry about, won't react with the vengeance many Rocket fans had anticipated. Boston will leave Washington behind when it visits the Summit.

What Washington, yet another controversial power forward can do for the struggling Celtics, already blessed or burdened with Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks, is equally unclear.

The Warriors, struggling to retain a playoff position, Monday waived veteran forward Derreck Dickey and returned rookie forward Wesley Cox to the fold.

The 6-7 Dickey was a member of the team which won the 1975 National Basketball Association championship in 1975, and his departure means only four players from that squad remain — Rick Barry, Clifford Ray, Phil Smith and Charles Dudley.

Dickey, in his fifth NBA season, played in 23 games and averaged 5 points this season with the Warriors. The 6-6 Cox, a first-round draft choice from Louisville, was on the roster at the beginning of the season while Dickey was injured, then was placed on the injured reserve list himself.

The ultimate fate of the 1978 Warriors is as cloudy as last weekend's weather map. After beating the Denver Nuggets by 11-points Thursday, the Warriors were, for the umpteenth time, back.

Now, they were cooking. Everyone from coach Al Attles and captain Rick Barry to reserves Ricky Green and Derreck Dickey were enthused. Surely Golden State was on the right track.

Not exactly. An overwhelming loss to the Lakers in the Forum — a haunted house that has contained ten Warrior defeats in succession — was disappointing, but not unexpected.

Saturday, however, the Warriors were ripped in overtime by San Antonio as 6-foot-7 guard George Gervin liberally split the nets with fourth-quarter jumpers, 23 points worth in all. Once the 15-point Golden State lead vanished, the overtime was easy for San Antonio.

The Warriors played most of the game undermanned, with Dickey and Robert Parish injured and Rick Barry tossed out of the game by referee Jess Kersey late in the second period.

With an eight-man roster for the second half, the Warriors were perhaps too tired to deny Gervin the ball when it became apparent hand.

The Warriors will hand out 10,000 John Havlicek posters tonight and also hold a brief halftime ceremony honoring the Celtics' star who is retiring at the end of the season.

Leon Spinks gets an early morning workout with trainer Sam Solomon yesterday.

Ali needs help from no one

LAS VEGAS — "Don't need no luck with the duck," Muhammad Ali said Monday when wished good fortune against Leon Spinks in their world heavyweight championship fight Wednesday night.

The champion added "the duck" to a long list of nicknames he has given opponents while talking to a knot of fans, then looked at a few reporters, smiled and said:

"Oh, I ain't supposed to be talking to you guys."

But while Ali was straining to maintain his self-imposed sanction against talking for publication, his trainer, Angelo Dundee, was more than happy to discuss the scheduled 15-round fight he thinks Ali will win in 11.

"I see him fighting like Joe Frazier (bob, weave and apply pressure)," said Dundee. "You got to remember he's got Philadelphia connection."

Spinks has sparred with Frazier, trained in his gym and is trained by Sam Solomon of Philadelphia and George Benton, a top Philadelphia fighter of the late 1950s and the 1960s who helped train Frazier.

"I see him trying to bend and slip punches," said Dundee. "I know he's going to gamble early. He's going to try to pressure Ali. He's got a good left hook to the body."

However, Dundee figures that Spinks can't overcome Ali's size, experience and that unseen weapon Ali has — the added pressure put on an opponent by the realization he is fighting a living legend.

"Fighting against Muhammad Ali and the realization will take its toll around the 11th round," said Dundee. "I think he's a well-conditioned kid, but I think he's going to run out of gas."

Spinks, who is 24, will be giving away about 25 pounds, four inches in reach and tons of experience to the 36-year-old Ali, who will be making his 23rd appearance in a heavyweight championship fight. Spinks, the Olympic light heavyweight champion of 1976, has six wins and a draw as a pro. Ali, the Olympic light heavyweight champion of 1960, has a record of 55-2-0.

"The guy is getting older and he's not the guy who fought Joe Frazier," said Benton, noting that Ali has paid a price for his experience.

Solomon agreed with Dundee that Spinks will have to try to pressure Ali, but he was reluctant to discuss strategy except to say:

"I might have him stand on his head to confuse Ali."

The fight will headline a card that also includes a scheduled 15-rounder between Danny "Little Red Lopez," the World Boxing Council featherweight champion and David Kotey of Ghana and four 10-rounders.

CBS will televise from the Hilton Hotel from 8 p.m. to about 11:15 p.m. EST, with the Ali-Spinks fight to start about 10:15 p.m.

Arkansas makes BB history

For the first time in history, a Southwest Conference team sits atop the college basketball world. Arkansas, by virtue of its 23-1 record, finished first in the latest Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Razorbacks collected 24 of 53 first-place votes, good for 950 points. Arkansas outdistanced defending NCAA champ Marquette, which received 14 first-place votes and 921 points.

"I thought in all likelihood we would be No. 1," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "After all, we have won more games than anybody and have just one loss."

Arkansas unseated Kentucky, which dropped to third place after a 95-94 overtime loss at Louisiana State.

"I don't like to use comparative scores," Sutton said, "but we beat LSU at Baton Rouge (67-62) and Kentucky lost to LSU at Baton Rouge. LSU defeating Kentucky gives our record some credibility. I would be the first to admit that we would probably have more than one loss if we were in the Big Ten, the ACC or the SEC."

Marquette, 19-2, won twice during the week and moved up from third place. Kentucky, 17-2, received 12 first-place votes and 884 points but dropped those two spots.

UCLA, 18-2, was a winner twice and advanced a notch to fourth place. The Bruins got one first-place vote and 782 points. New Mexico also jumped a spot to fifth and collected 527 points and a first-place vote.

Kansas, 20-3, had a pair of easy conference victories and climbed two spots to sixth.

Notre Dame, 16-4, lost in overtime at home to DePaul and fell from fourth to seventh. The Irish received 447 points. DePaul jumped from 11th to eighth with the triumph over Notre Dame. DePaul, 19-2, also received a first-place vote.

Frustration for Chabot matmen at State meet

See page 8

Thomsen typifies frustrated Glads

BAKERSFIELD — Ending up in second place isn't too bad, unless you were planning on first, as was the Chabot College wrestling team here last weekend.

The Gladiators bowed to Palomar in the State Junior College Wrestling Tournament here late Saturday night.

Palomar finished in the top spot with 89 team points, while Chabot trailed in second place with 73.

There were a lot of "ifs" in the final results for the Glads.

If the heavyweight Tom Thomsen had not broken two ribs a week ago, and if the outstanding 190-pounder Ron Freeman had not been lost for the remainder of the season because of a hernia, what might have happened is another story.

"But it does happen," Thomsen said dejectedly, as he stood around after losing his first and final round because of his injury.

"Last year I didn't get any chances in high school; this year I did, but couldn't do anything," the freshman said in anger.

Thomsen said the thing that hurts more than his ribs was being confident that he could win but not having the chance.

"I was pretty confident, sure. You have to be confident when the guys you'd be going against you've beaten before," he lamented.

Thomsen had beaten, earlier in the season, last year's finalist and this year's third place finisher Craig Schoene from Skyline.

The otherwise placid grappler finished the Golden Gate Conference season undefeated.

"The only other thing that hurt was that I did not have a chance to help the team. I didn't score any points," he noted.

Another disappointment for the Glads was 126-pounder Jesse Bails, who finished with a respectable sixth.

Bails defeated Jeff Wallick from Pasadena College 7-1 in the first round, and looked as though he would go all the way as he completely dominated Wallick.

But somewhere along the line he choked. "I'm not really bitter about it, though. You can't sit and worry about what you could have done," Bails explained after he was knocked out of a championship spot.

"I could have done much better than I did, and I wish I could have helped the team more in the finals, though."

The Chabot team, under the heading of coach Zack Papachristos, was under pressure of expectations by the coach himself to take the top spot.

"The Chabot team knows how to deal with pressure. We accept it," Bails explained.

Although he had to settle for consolation placement, he doesn't feel personally frustrated.

"I'm really pleased, anyway. I've really got no complaints," Bails admitted.

His teammate Thomsen was a little bit more disappointed and had troubles understanding his untimely injury.

"I just have to accept it, I guess. If I was a sophomore, I'd really be down. This season I just have to put behind me. I can't sit here and look back," he said realistically.

Thomsen predicted that had he been healthy Chabot could have been tough at heavyweights.

"There's no doubt about it," he emphasized.

Thomsen explained that he was forced to drop out after the first round because it was hard for him to breathe and he said that he had no strength.

The Glads did manage to place their 167-pounder Bill Choate in the championship spot.

Choate dominated El Camino's Jim Thornton in the final round and captured a 6-2 decision.

A protest

Beth Norton, 20-year-old women's professional tennis player from Fairfield, Connecticut, plans to protest a $5,000 fine about to be imposed upon her for walking out on a tennis match with controversial Dr. Renee Richards in Columbus, Ohio, last month. The mattle had reached match point between the two when Ms. Norton exited.

Austin off on right foot

MIAMI — "This is a great start for me," said Debbie Austin, winner of the first stop on the 1978 tour of the Ladies Professional Golf Association. "It really builds my confidence."

But she says she lost some of her confidence en route to the $50,000 Sunday victory in the 54-hole American Cancer Society Classic, played under sunny skies at the Kendale Lakes Country Club.

She went to a driver on a troublesome hole and wound up in the water for a triple-bogey. She later admitted she should have stayed with a safe three-wood.

"I was a little down after I made that eight on the 16th hole, but I didn't give up," said Austin, 30. "I've seen a lot of girls make an eight and their whole round deteriorates, but I tried to hang in there."

She hung in for a one-stroke victory over Japan's Nayoka Yoshikawa, who bogeyed the final hole when her four-foot putt rimmed out.

Austin, winning her sixth LPGA tourney and $7,500, finished with an even-par 72 and a four-under 212.

She started the final round a stroke behind Yoshikawa and had shot five strokes ahead to nine under by the 11th hole. But she blew that lead with two bogeys and the nearly disastrous triple bogey. The two went to the 18th tied at four under.

Yoshikawa, 28, and in her first American tournament, carded a final-round 74 and closed at 213, tied with Beth Solomon. Both earned $4,330.

Sally Little, Sandra Palmer and Judy Rankin were at 214, and Jane Blalock and Jan Stephenson were at 215. Defending champion Pam Higgins was at 219.

Margaret Wade Trophy

Top women cagers noticed

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, move over, Mr. Heisman. Make some room, Mr. Sullivan. Out of the way, Mr. Rupp. There's a new prize up for grabs.

For college football players, it's always been the Heisman Trophy. For amateur athletes, the Sullivan Award has been the ultimate. College basketball players — men, at least — shoot for the Rupp Trophy.

Now, joining that elite class, is the Margaret Wade Trophy, which will go to the nation's top women's basketball player each year.

But the legendary coach of the Delta State women's team for whom the trophy is named has a basic problem. "They think I'm the tennis player," she says. "They call me Virginia."

They don't make that mistake in Mississippi, though. Aunt Margaret — her nickname all over the Delta State neighborhood — never has won at Wimbledon.

But in the five years since the school resumed its women's basketball program, her record is an impressive 130-8. Before that, she was at Cleveland, Miss., High School for what she describes as "many, many, many years," and compiled a 335-67 record there. That's a cumulative 465-75 mark and now you know why they're naming the trophy after her.

"I'm really honored and appreciative," she said Monday as the Wade Trophy was unveiled for the first time. "This will go on and on. I won't."

Don't panic, Delta State. Aunt Margaret isn't retiring. Not yet. "Oh, I think about it daily," she laughs. "I don't want to. What else would I do?"

Basketball has been an integral part of Wade's life, ever since her days as an undergraduate at Delta State. She played there from 1929 to 1932 when the administration decided to drop the sport because it was considered too rough.

"Can you imagine that?" she says. "We played 7-minute quarters with five players on a team and they thought it was too hard physically. When they brought it back, we were playing 20-minute halves, five players on a team, and a 30-second clock. But that's not too hard. It's all what you train yourself to do. Times change."

Wade doesn't get into the periphery areas of recruiting and schedule-making that occupy so many collegiate coaches these days. "I just coach," she says.

Of course, if a tall, young lady happens onto the campus, she's entirely likely to be pointed in the direction of the gym. That's because Lucy Harris, who led Delta State to three straight national championships, still works at the school. "She's in admissions," crows Aunt Margaret.

Colusa nips Valley

WILLIAMS — Despite its best offensive show of the season the Livermore Valley Rugby Club still lost to Colusa 15-14 last Saturday here.

The loss dropped the Livermore team's record to 2-3. Colusa is now 4-3.

Danny Abele made a perfect conversion attempt after outside center Sherman Randlas scored to give Colusa the victory.

Steve Barnett had a four-point shot to bring Livermore back from a halftime deficit. Full-back Bill Barnett set up the score with a long kick which Steve fielded and pushed in after being tackled.

Rich Pope then put Livermore in the lead with a 20-yard run for four points. John Timmer kicked the conversion to give Livermore a 14-9 advantage before Randlas and Abele combined to give Colusa the win.

Bored Hardy eyes hardship draft

SAN FRANCISCO — Junior forward James Hardy of the University of San Francisco says he is giving strong consideration to entering the National Basketball Association's hardship draft.

Hardy, who suffered a broken thumb Friday and will be out of action about four weeks, told the San Francisco Examiner in a copyrighted interview Sunday that he is bored with college basketball.

"I want to move on to the pros if I can," Hardy said. "I want to play with the best where I can run more and do the things that are meant to be done with a basketball."

"College basketball just bores me, with four-corner offenses, zone defenses and so many slow players. I want to play against the 24-second clock, not four-corner offenses, zones and lousy officials who stop the game all the time."

"I've filled out all hardship letters," the 6-foot-8 player added. "I've done everything but mail them in."

Hardy, an all-West Coast Athletic Conference player last year, had averaged 16 points and nine rebounds a game prior to his injury and has been a crowd-pleaser with a wide variety of slam dunks.

Hardy concedes he could be worth a lot of money to the pros, but he said that is not his major concern. "What I want more than money is to go someplace where I will be able to show how I can play," he said, convinced he could be a starter immediately for some NBA teams.

Hardy broken his thumb against Pepperdine when he hit a backboard. He is expected to wear a cast for about a month, although he may be able to return for post-season play if the Dons qualify.

Tennis bubble bursts Faster ways to workout

NEW YORK (AP) — Lost: 10 million tennis players.

Last sighted, they were wearing $50 shorts, $25 shirts with a crocodile on the chest, $65 warmup suits and $45 kid shoes. They were carrying two $75 racquets in a fancy satchel and were racing toward the closest indoor bubble.

Anybody seen 'em? Where did they go? And why?

"Just got fed up," the Sports Training Institute of Chicago said today in reporting on what it pictures as the greatest mass exodus since Moses led the Israelites out of the wilderness.

Within the past decade, tennis became the fastest growing participant sport in the country. Its ranks mushroomed from six million timid souls — almost embarrassed to be seen with a racquet under their arms — to a bustling 30 million who went deliriously mad over the pastime.

It was the "in" thing. You couldn't go into an airport without seeing scores of travelers lugging court equipment under their arms. Indoor complexes mushroomed. Real estate couldn't be cleared fast enough to build the courts in demand. Sporting goods stores, instructors, publishers and promoters prospered. The tournament players became the millionaire elitists of professional sports.

Then something happened, the Sports Training Institute said. A wave of disenchantment set in among the new recruits. Learners lost their interest in clusters — until the casualty list, by the Institute's count, numbered 10 million.

What happened? It was a question the Institute decided to learn for itself, so it assigned researchers to student drop-outs, instructors and court operators. This is what they found. Listen to the deserters first:

"Learning was not fun. It was actually quite frustrating.

"I was making a fool of myself out there."

"The hyped-up advertising and promotion made you feel like a second-class citizen if you didn't have a $75 racquet, $25 shoes and color coordinated warmups."

"If a guy says, 'No, I don't want to play, I just like to hit 'em,' he's considered some kind of nut."

"Tennis did not give me the exercise or the trim figure I expected."

"There are faster ways to get a workout."

Gong Show via Deep Throat

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is a bastion of talent on NBC called "The Gong Show." The host, Chuck Barris, always is introduced by lovely ladies. One is Carol Connors. She is not an ordinary introducer.

She was the nurse in "Deep Throat," the noted film that was extremely X-rated as it showed grunting and groaning ladies and gentlemen doing that which causes a rating of X.

A spokesman for Barris says she made her "Gong" debut last year as a singer-dancer. She didn't win, but often returns as a guest introducer and will return next Feb. 22, 23, 24 and 27.

Ms. Connors, blonde, blue-eyed, clad in a low-cut red jump suit, spoke in a soft low voice at her office here recently about her career and her debut on the Barris show. Of the latter, she said: "I was awarded nine points by the two men judges and two points by Jaye P. Morgan, one for each ... bosom."

Ms. Connors, 23, said she's from an Army family, was born in New Jersey and raised in Fort Worth, Tex., and Fort Dix, N.J. She was asked how she got into a film such as "Deep Throat."

She said it began when she was 18, vacationing in Miami, Fla. A photographer saw her on the beach and told he could get her work as a model. And he did, she said.

Then, she continued, "one day he called and said, 'I have some friends down from New York who are putting together a movie and what do you think?' And I said, 'Wow, me in the movies.'"

Did he explain the nature of the epic?
"I found out during the interview," she said. "And one of the men involved in the picture said, 'Oh, honey, don't worry, you're going to look terrific in that nurse's uniform.' I was awfully nervous."

"I just wanted to be in the movies. I didn't even know what kind of movie it was. As a matter of fact, I didn't even know they had those types of movies. I was so naive ..."

"I guess the hardest thing for me to do was to take off my clothes in front of people I didn't know. But once I got past that, the rest was easy. And the rest is history."

What's it like making an X-rated movie?
"Well, it's just like making any other kind of film, only the action is - sex," she said with a shy smile. "That's the only difference. It's hard work, it's acting and what can I say?"

"Deep Throat" premiered in late 1972 to mixed reviews from patrons and police. Carol said she then began an act of song and dance, and played various clubs and theaters around the country.

Challenge it. Take it where you want to. Decide for yourself whether it's your kind of machine. Only if your decision is yes will a salesman talk specifics with you.

Otherwise, just return the keys and be on your way. No strings. The fact that Toyota is America's best selling import doesn't necessarily mean one is for you.

Put these tips and some spare fuses near your fuse box.

With a flashlight, they may help should your lights go out.

Be Prepared. Know where your fuse boxes or circuit breakers are located.

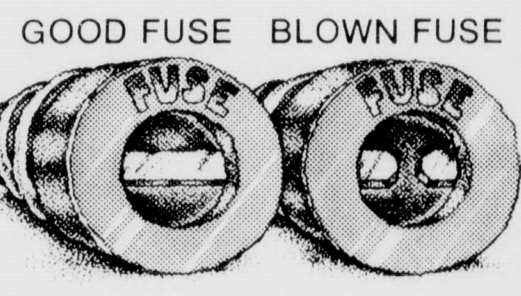

Locate the main switch box—usually near the spot where the PG&E electric service wires connect to your house, or near your PG&E electric meter. Locate any additional fuse box or boxes—usually in a closet or utility room. Keep spare fuses handy.

Check the Neighbors. If your lights should go out, check to see if other homes in your neighborhood have lights. If the power is off in your home only, you may have a blown fuse or tripped circuit breaker.

Determine the Cause. Blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers are often caused by having too many lamps or appliances connected to one outlet or circuit. Another possibility is a defective cord on a lamp or appliance. To check, unplug all lamps or appliances on the affected circuit, looking for defective plugs or cords while doing so. Replace the blown fuse or reset the tripped circuit breaker, following the procedures given below. Then plug each lamp or appliance back in one at a time. A defective one or an overload will cause the fuse to blow, or circuit breaker to trip, again.

To Replace a Fuse. First turn the main switch to "OFF." Make sure that your hands are dry and that you are standing on a dry surface. Look for the "blown" fuse; the "window" may be blackened, or there may be a visible gap in the fuse element. Replace the blown fuse with one of the proper amperage rating, usually one of not more than 30 amps. Never use a penny or other metal object to "bridge" the blown fuse, as this could cause a house fire. Turn the main switch to "ON." If only part of the lights in the house come on, this may indicate that a circuit breaker has tripped, or a fuse in a branch fuse box has also blown. Check these fuses in the same way you did at the main switch. Branch box fuses have a maximum rating of 15 or 20 amps.

Cartridge Fuses. Be sure the main switch is "OFF" while you are changing cartridge fuses. You won't be able to visually tell exactly which cartridge fuse is blown. In this case, test by safely replacing each fuse with a new one until you find the blown fuse. Generally it is a good idea to replace all cartridge fuses in a circuit when one blows.

To Reset a Circuit Breaker. A tripped circuit breaker will probably be out of the "ON" position. Move the affected circuit breaker handle all the way to the "OFF" position (for some circuit breakers, a moderate pressure in the "OFF" direction is necessary to cause them to reset). Then, move the handle to the "ON" position. If the affected circuit breaker does not indicate that it has tripped (its handle has not moved from the "ON" position), and you do not know which circuit breaker controls the affected circuit, try resetting all circuit breakers.

Some Added Safety Tips. Never plug in electrical appliances near bathtubs or basins. Never wash coffee pots or frying pans while they are still plugged in. Make sure that electric tools are properly grounded (with a 3-prong plug), or are of the U.L. approved "double-insulated" type. When you unplug an appliance, pull the plug—not the cord.

Still in the Dark? If you've followed all of these procedures and you're still in the dark, don't hesitate to call PG&E. We'll be happy to help.
